Message from the Prelate (21 April 2025)

In this message, Monsignor Fernando Ocáriz announces that plans for the General Congress will be reduced in scope in order to be closely united to the Church during this time of mourning for the passing of Pope Francis.

Amid sorrow over the passing of our beloved Pope Francis and gratitude to God for his generous witness, I am writing to share some specific news.

As you are aware, the tenth Ordinary General Congress of the Work was scheduled to take place in Rome over the next two weeks, concluding on May 5.

After listening to the Central Advisory and the General Council, and considering that most Congress participants have already arrived in Rome due to the imminent start dates, we have decided that the Congress will be reduced to the minimum necessary: the renewal of positions in the General Council and the Central Advisory, which are appointed or renewed every eight years.

Let us take advantage of these days to live in communion with the whole Church during the mourning and funeral rites for the Holy Father. All the regions of Opus Dei will be present in some way in the Eternal City through your sisters and brothers at the Congress.

The other questions that were to be dealt with at the Congress, which I mentioned to you in my message of April 8, will be studied later. Now is a time of mourning, prayer and unity with the whole Church.

As I wrote in my previous message, let us turn to Holy Mary, Mother of Hope, so that during this period of the Holy See's vacancy, she may be a consolation and guide for everyone in the Church.

Fernando Ocáriz
